

I am a musician and recording studio owner. I record local artists in the North Texas Area and help with the production of their audio masters. I also perform with a Historic Swing band called "The Texas Gypsies".

I perform live shows about 2-3 times a week. And have recorded over 50 CD's of other various artists.

There is no more real local radio here. There used to be DJ's that would try to expose local talent but those days are gone by the corporate take over's of all stations. There should be more radio here for local artist access.

FCC should come up with a true definition of local music that will benefit true local artists!

Artists that are unsigned by a major record company and are a self contained act that produces and funds its own audio recordings and performs locally.

Stations should also count local music being played on air as part of local programming.

Stations should be at certain public charities.

Any form of payment or favors to have music played is payola and should be illegal.

Does not seem fair.

This is the biggest misjustice. It only allows the big money guys to control what everyone hears and is based on the favors they get from other companies and money men!! Radio should be back like it was when local DJ's could pick songs and listeners could call in requests!

Sounds good but no experience with them.

Thanks for letting me express my concerns on big corporate radio and local programming.
